Destiney Parker-Thompson represents clients in a variety of bankruptcy and insolvency matters.

Destiney resides in Wilmington, Delaware, and works virtually in our Raleigh office.

Destiney is a member of the Corporate Restructuring and Bankruptcy Group and represents financial services companies, lenders, and individuals in restructuring and insolvency matters, including collections and repossessions, loan workouts, and creditors' rights issues.

Prior to joining Baker Donelson, Destiney clerked for the Honorable Craig T. Goldblatt on the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware. She then clerked for the Honorable Tamika Montgomery-Reeves on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit.

Destiney graduated from the Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law at Campbell University School of Law in May 2020. After graduating law school, Destiney represented clients in consumer and business bankruptcy proceedings across North Carolina.

Prior to attending law school, Destiney worked in various industries, including retail, gaming, and hospitality. Through this experience, Destiney developed many skills that clients benefit from today – such as unmatched client and customer service, relationship building, time management, and problem solving. Destiney's occupational experience also gave her an understanding and appreciation for internal operations and all that goes into operating a successful business. With more than 10 years of work experience, and almost three years of learning from judges on two of our nation's distinguished courts, Destiney enjoys using all that she has learned to service clients at the highest level.
