Cameron Kapperman assists clients with a wide range of litigation matters, including commercial litigation, construction litigation, eminent domain, and fiduciary-related litigation.

Cameron Kapperman is an associate in Baker Donelson's Chattanooga office and a member of the Business Litigation Group.

As a member of a courtroom trial team with a nationwide footprint, Cameron has significant experience litigating high stakes cases in a variety of subject matters, including commercial litigation, construction litigation, eminent domain, and fiduciary-related litigation. From the initial filing of a lawsuit, through discovery, motion practice, and the conclusion of trial, Cameron is dedicated to providing the highest level of client service while demonstrating skillful and zealous advocacy. Cameron also recognizes the role of an attorney as a risk manager, as he actively works with his clients to solve problems before they arise.

Prior to joining the Business Litigation Group, Cameron maintained a trust and estate practice and has extensive experience related to trust and estate planning, trust and estate administration, and fiduciary-related litigation.
