

Jack Ritossa

Associate

Nashville | 615.726.5559 | jritossa@bakerdonelson.com

Jack Ritossa is an associate in Baker Donelson's Nashville office and a member of the Corporate Group.

Mr. Ritossa focuses his practice in the areas of corporate matters and mergers and acquisitions.

Most recently, Mr. Ritossa clerked for an international law firm headquartered in Washington, D.C., where he handled corporate matters in the Blockchain & Cryptocurrency Group. His experience includes helping clients establish a regulatory practice that is compliant with U.S. federal and state regulations, as well as regulations from the SEC, CFTC, FinCEN, and state-level regulators.

As a paralegal in the UK, Mr. Ritossa worked under a senior partner in the Financial Services Disputes and Investigations Group of a national law firm and was seconded to the Confidentiality Team of a large remediation project for a national bank. He also served as co-editor of a widely consulted online legal journal, editing articles relating to competition law, accounting law, social media data collection, the Big Four accounting firms, and investor visas.

Representative Matters

- Represented an automotive and energy manufacturer in connection with product/service agreements worth more than $1 billion.

Education

- University of Pennsylvania Law School, LL.M., 2020
- University of Law, Postgraduate Diploma in Legal Practice, 2018
- University of Nottingham, LL.B., 2017, Upper Second-Class Honors

Admissions

- New York, 2023
- Tennessee, 2025