William Oliver is a member of the Firm's Financial Services Department.

Mr. Oliver represents banks, bank holding companies, nonbank lenders, other financial services providers, and their investors in merger and acquisition, restructuring and recapitalization, and securities transactions.

He also advises depository and non-depository financial services providers on financial regulatory laws, including the Bank Holding Company Act, Change in Bank Control Act, Bank Secrecy Act, Dodd-Frank Act, and various state licensing and compliance laws throughout the nation.

Additionally, Mr. Oliver counsels clients on compliance with the rules and regulations of the Federal Reserve, OCC, FDIC, CFPB, OFAC, state banking departments, and other federal and state regulators. His experience also includes advising financial institutions on their debt and equity offerings.

Prior to joining the Firm, Mr. Oliver practiced with the Financial Institutions Advisory & Financial Regulatory Practice Group at a large international firm's New York office.

Mr. Oliver also served on active duty in the U.S. Army from 2003 to 2017, during which he completed multiple overseas deployments and led soldiers in various organizations.
