

Baker Donelson Launches Title IX, Higher Education Group

(Atlanta, GA / October 9, 2014) Baker Donelson, the 68th largest law firm in the country, announces the addition of a Higher Education Group to consolidate its already-substantial experience representing higher education institutions, including their athletic departments.

Attorneys and advisors in Baker Donelson's Higher Education Group have extensive experience representing colleges and universities across a comprehensive spectrum of matters. They advise institutions and handle litigation in numerous areas, including Title IX, facilities/construction, intellectual property, strategic planning, labor and employment, immigration, health care and tax law. They have significant experience representing athletic departments, university foundations, and university hospitals and health schools.