

NEWS

Law360 Q&A with Government Contracts Practice Leader Darwin Hindman

Darwin Hindman talks with Law360 about his career and government contracts practice, and discusses the impact of federal budget cuts, especially sequestration. Mr. Hindman notes, "This issue is important to anyone who pays taxes and benefits from government services (which is to say everyone). But it is felt the most directly and most painfully by government contractors and grantees. Not only are there less opportunities for work, but existing contracts and programs are becoming much more difficult to perform. And there is more risk to contractors, too."

Read the Article