

Scott Carey Discusses Nashville's Growing Status in National Law Journal's Southern Law Report

In the National Law Journal's Southern Law Report article on Nashville's status as "the 'It' city of the moment," Nashville office managing shareholder Scott Carey discusses the city's strong legal culture and how it was cushioned from the financial crisis. "You've got this energy in the city from young people coming to the colleges, people getting off at the bus station with guitars, people looking to go into music production, and that has created energy that you don't necessarily feel in other places," Mr. Carey said. "And that has brought entrepreneurs. I think it's the most dynamic city in the South."
