Justin Daniels Talks About Baker Donelson's Cyber Business Accelerator in the Atlanta Business Chronicle

Baker Donelson plans to launch an Atlanta accelerator whose sole focus is accelerating the growth of emerging domestic and international cybersecurity companies within the Atlanta cybersecurity ecosystem. In this article in the Atlanta Business Chronicle, Justin Daniels discusses the Baker Donelson Innovation Institute, which will run programs of six to 12 months and will provide assistance with business planning, go to market strategy, customer identification, networking with investors and office space.

"The goal is to help Atlanta build awareness of our unique cybersecurity ecosystem," said Mr. Daniels. "The whole point is to get these companies — particularly international startups — to become part of Atlanta's cybersecurity ecosystem."
