Scott Carey Comments in Nashville Ledger on Expansion of Nashville's Legal Sector

This Nashville Ledger article highlights the growth of the legal sector in Nashville as local law firms are in expansion mode and, as Nashville's star rises nationally, outside law firms – and some lawyers who left for greener pastures – are looking to move into Music City. Scott Carey, managing shareholder of Baker Donelson's Nashville office, comments on the market's growth, noting, "There's a lot of players with anywhere from five to 30 or 40 lawyers that are trying to get to where we are because they understand you really need to have critical mass in Nashville to be taken seriously. It's a great market, and we've got room to grow."
