(Atlanta, GA / September 23, 2014) Baker Donelson is pleased to congratulate three of the firm's clients on their selection to present at Venture Atlanta 2014. Among the 34 presenting companies, the Baker Donelson clients chosen to present include Checkd.in, SIGNiX and MacStadium. "We are incredibly proud of our clients and their innovative achievements that have led them to this great opportunity," said Justin S. Daniels, Practice Leader of Baker Donelson's Emerging Companies practice in Atlanta. "Importantly, new this year, Venture Atlanta has selected four companies from outside the state, including Nashville-based Checkd.in and Chattanooga's SIGNiX, as a part of the conference's new Southeast Showcase. The new focus on the Southeastern United States complements Baker Donelson's annual Southeastern Regional Capital Connections event held each May during which we host 15 technology companies from across the Southeast to present to investors from throughout the region."

Checkd.in provides the entertainment industry with the first digital sponsorship exchange that allows brands to activate highly engaged fan bases from today's best content properties.

SIGNiX offers an online service that enables the online signing of forms, contracts or business documents with digital signatures.

MacStadium is a global provider of dedicated Apple Mac hosting and cloud computing solutions for software development businesses.

Now entering its 13th year, Venture Atlanta connects local entrepreneurs with venture capitalists, bankers, angel investors and others who can help them raise capital. The event has helped connect more than 150 companies, including both early and late stage companies, with over $1.3 billion in funding.
