PODCAST: Preparing for a HIPAA Breach - Tips from the Trenches [Ober|Kaler]

July 28, 2014

As the flow of electronic information grows and spreads across medical providers and business associates of all sizes, the risk of HIPAA breaches is higher than ever. Breaches can result in government investigations, penalties, reputation damage and contractual issues between business associates and covered entities. It's critical that organizations handle breaches correctly. In this podcast, we discuss the things health care organizations should have in place in the event a breach occurs.
