Kristine E. Nelson Joins Baker Donelson's Health Care Litigation Group

September 11, 2018

Baker Donelson has added Kristine E. Nelson to the Firm's Memphis office as a member of the Health Care Litigation Group.

"We are elated that Kristine has joined our team; she is the perfect addition to our group of seasoned trial attorneys," said Christy Tosh Crider, chair of Baker Donelson's Health Care Litigation Group. "She not only brings a wealth of experience in traditional health care litigation, but is a skilled practitioner in employment law and insurance coverage disputes as well. We also appreciate the national perspective she brings having practiced in Washington, D.C."

Ms. Nelson joins the Firm as of counsel and has significant experience in health care liability defense, commercial litigation, insurance coverage litigation, and insurance defense. She represents health care providers, including physicians, medical practice groups, and medical institutions in defending all phases of lawsuits alleging health care liability in federal and state court. Ms. Nelson's practice also focuses on counseling and litigation on behalf of employer clients in the area of labor and employment. She is experienced in representing employers in labor and employment matters pending before the EEOC and in federal court. Ms. Nelson is a member of the Memphis and Tennessee Bar Associations.
